GENERAL INFORMATION.

Indiana Central University is located about one mile south of the city of Indianapolis, at University Heights, and is reached by traction cars which run hourly from the Union Terminal Station in Indianapolis over the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction line.

The University is a high grade institution, incorporated under the laws of the State, and provides a high grade of instruction at a very reasonable cost.

The management and instruction are in charge of men and women who are devoted to the cause of Higher Christian Education.

It is thought that to produce an accomplished Christian man or woman is the highest work of education.

The University is controlled by a board of trustees representative of the St. Joseph, White River and Indiana conferences of the United Brethren Church in Indiana. This board meets annually to transact the general business of the institution, leaving much of detail work to be carried out by an executive committee.

In general equipment the institution is prepared to effectively carry out several lines of educational work and offers the full work of the standard college leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, academy work, equal to that of the commissioned high schools of the State; normal training for teachers in classes "A" and "B" as required by the State Board of Education, a school of music offering courses in Piano, Violin, Cornet and Voice. A school of Art furnishing superior advantages in the various lines of art work. Among the religious advantages there is supported a thriving Sunday school, Y. P. C. E. U. organization and thriving young men's and young women's Christian Associations. For special literary training the young men and young women each sustain excellent literary societies which meet regularly each week.

ENDOWMENTS AND SCHOLARSHIPS.

By the gift of $20,000, by the late John M. Bonebrake and his wife, Mary E. Bonebrake, of Veedersburg, Indiana, the teaching of the Bible in the institution has been provided for, and that subject is now placed on an equal basis with other subjects taught in the University.

The following scholarships have been established and the benefits derived from them are from time to time available for the benefit of worthy young men and young women: The Rich Valley Scholarship, founded in 1911, by the gifts of the members of the United Brethren Church of Rich Valley, Indiana; The Fanny D. Bonebrake, available for students of college rank; And the D. Bonebrake, available for students of college rank, and the White River Branch Y. P. C. E. U. Scholarship, pledged in 1912 and now in part available for students preparing for special Christian work.

THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS.

Young men and young women who are graduates of commissioned high schools of the State or of certified academies are admitted to the Freshman Class without examination, and upon the satisfactory completion of one hundred ninety-two hours of work are graduated with the A. B. degree.

To meet the requirements for greater flexibility in the course of study which the student may wish to pursue, the course provides for certain required subjects which every student must take, to which are added Group Studies and Free Electives. The several group studies are those of English Language and Literature, Foreign Languages, Mathematics, Science, History and Economics, Philosophy, Education, Bible and Religion.

The free elective studies are an offering to give the student a measure of freedom in expressing his individual choice of subjects.

For details of the courses of study in the College of Liberal Arts you are referred to the general catalogue which will be sent, upon application, to any address.

THE ACADEMY.

The Academy is maintained under the laws of the State regulating high schools and academies. The course consists of the regular four years' work outlined by the State Board for commissioned high schools and completion of the course gives the same standing to its graduates as those of the commissioned high schools receive. The Academy is under the same general supervision as the college departments and receives the same careful attention. The teaching faculty is carefully selected for teaching ability and moral influence. The morals of the students are carefully guarded and since the classes are not large the teachers have opportunity to look after the peculiar needs of each one in their classes.

Many students are glad to avail themselves of the opportunities offered by the departments of music and oratory, for instruction in piano, violin and public speaking; besides, the Christian Associations, literary societies and other organizations of the College are open to the students of the Academy.

The State law provides that in case a student can for any reason receive better training in an academy than is provided for him in the schools of his township, he is entitled to a transfer to such academy, and to have the tuition paid by his trustee. This is a provision that the State has made in an effort to see that all its young people may have a good chance at the best high school education. There are many young people whose homes are not close to a commissioned high school or for reasons of moral conditions should avail themselves of the opportunity of doing their high school work where not only superior teaching is provided, but where there is a positive moral uplift. Also many young men and young women who have dropped out of school work for any reason and have come to believe that they should go further in their education should attend the Academy and do their college work in Indiana Central University.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION.

Indiana Central University is especially adapted to offer inducements for those who are looking forward to teaching as a profession. The school of education offers a variety of courses that are open to students in the Fall term as well as in each of the other terms. These courses are in charge of teachers of long and varied experience, teachers with clear perspective of the field of education. The work thus offered will be recognized for the granting of certificates which the institution is authorized to grant. Such latitude will be accorded to the student as may be consistent with the rules of the State governing the requirements for teachers. Opportunities will be found in collateral departments of History and Philosophy for supplementing the more purely pedagogical courses.

By virtue of its location Indiana Central University can offer educational opportunities that are not possible in other schools. Near the University is located a township graded school where the student of pedagogy may visit, make observations, and study the actual workings of country school. Closely accessible to the University are some of the very best Township consolidated High Schools which furnish opportunity for observation and study in another phase of education. The schools of Indianapolis are open to students of observation. These schools furnish examples of both excellence and variety. Here the student of pedagogy has a chance to study the relation of education to society in a way rarely offered. He may visit industrial centers in the city where the system is specifically planned to meet the needs of social conditions.

The facilities above noted, together with others, added to superior instruction furnish strong inducements for prospective teachers and those who are already in the profession to attend Indiana Central University. For a detailed statement of the courses offered in Education, all persons interested are referred to the work outlined in the general catalogue of the institution. Special teacher's courses will be organized in Spring, Mid-spring and Summer terms.

INDIANA CENTRAL UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

It is the aim of the School of Music to educate its pupils in this study, not only that they may become good performers, but that they may possess such thorough general knowledge and skill as is required of the cultured musician of today.

Systematic instruction, with a view to enable the pupil to graduate and also secure the Bachelor's Degree in music, is given in the following subjects: Pianoforte, violin, voice, theory and composition.

The course of study is divided into two years of academic work and four years of college work. Upon the satisfactory completion of the two Academic years and the Sophomore year in any one of the departments, a Teacher's Certificate will be issued to the student so completing the work. Diplomas are issued to students who complete the work of the Collegiate Department and render a public recital or present a thesis.

In addition to the above requirements, students who complete nine college credits in the College of Liberal Arts will receive the degree of Bachelor of Music.

The students present a series of concerts and recitals during the scholastic year. These recitals develop in the pupil self-confidence and power to execute.

Special opportunities to hear the best talent in the world are afforded by the nearness of the college to Indianapolis. This, in itself, is an important part of a musical education. Many special privileges are offered to students pursuing any line of music work.

The instructors are all thoroughly qualified for the special work they undertake, by study under the best masters and long and successful experience in teaching.

Detailed information upon the courses of study, regulations and expenses may be had from the general catalogue upon application for the same.

THE SCHOOL OF ART.

Through this department of the University there is being offered the opportunity to study the various kinds of art work under the direction of a highly accomplished teacher at reasonable expense. Miss Myrtle Taylor, who is at the head of this department, has received public recognition, not only as an artist of superior ability but also as a lecturer before art schools and county institutes upon design and composition work.

It is possible with serious study to obtain equal technical skill here to that which would incur a much larger expense elsewhere. Definite courses are offered to prepare the student for definite lines of work. All instruction is individual and the student is encouraged to progress as rapidly as is consistent with thorough work.

Courses in Normal work, water color, china painting and architectural design and composition are offered. Details of each of these courses, together with expense of the same, will be found in the complete catalogue which will be furnished upon application.

COLLEGE NOTES.

I. C. U. has had a good year.

* * *

We wish the names of young people who expect to go to college.

* * *

College Stop—"Stop 4, University Heights," on the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction Company's line.

* * *

Indianapolis is easy of access to the traveling public from all parts of the State.

* * *

Indiana Central University will open its doors on September 16 for the ninth year of actual school work. You are invited to join our ranks.

* * *

Let every friend say a good word for us as often as the chance occurs and, where there is no chance, make one.

* * *

The college man should, upon his return home in vacation time, go to his usual place of worship and let his old neighbors comprehend that religion and culture go hand in hand.

* * *

The Philomusean and Philalethean literary societies have as beautiful and well appointed society halls as can be found in the State of Indiana.

* * *

The new additions to the college library, its beautiful fresco, its opportunities for comfortable study are much appreciated by the students and faculty.

* * *

During the present summer a number of buildings are going up in University Heights. Messrs. Galbreath, Beghtel, Karstedt, Bailey and others are now building, and there are others who expect to build before cold weather.

* * *

Rev. E. P. Day, of 1911, is taking his theological course in McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago and, in the meantime, is serving a congregation as pastor.

* * *

Rev. J. C. Shrigley, of 1912, is pastor of the Stone Bluff charge, White River Conference. He is making good.

* * *

Professor I. J. Good, of 1908, was a delegate from the White River Conference to the General Conference, at Decatur, Illinois, and served on important committees in that body. The church needs more laymen with the loyalty and vision of the Professor.

* * *

The Summer School of eight weeks, which will close on August 15, has been the best in the history of the College. There was an increase in attendance over last year of over 50 per cent.

* * *

For the Summer School of 1914 the authorities have already secured Professor Marshall and Professor Meyer. Others will be announced later. It is needless to say these gentlemen will meet the requirements in a most acceptable manner.

The National Y. M. C. A. convention at Lake Geneva had as the I. C. U. delegation Messrs. C. R. Smith and J. B. Good. The Y. W. C. A. will have Misses Vergie Mendenhall and Lucile Cummins.

* * *

The various branch meetings of the Endeavors were liberally attended by present and former students of I. C. U. They made themselves felt.

* * *

A census of the church membership of I. C. U. students in the month of February revealed that 98 per cent. of the student body belonged to some religious denomination, with the United Brethren largely predominating. Is there another such record anywhere?

* * *

Miss Myrtle Walters, Class 1913, who has been chosen to fill a place in the faculty of the Academy,; Professor D. L. Eaton, of the Chair of Mathematics and Physics; Professor Daniel Robinson, of the Bible Department, and Miss Margaret Bonebrake are the representatives of I. C. U. who took special courses of advanced university work in the University of Chicago during this summer.

* * *

The Faculty of the past year are largely retained for the coming year, and in addition there are some new faces.

* * *

Professor Charles R. Meyer has been chosen and has accepted his old work in the Latin and Greek department. His friends of former days are many, and a welcome awaits him upon his return in September.

* * *

The disastrous storm of Easter time was the occasion of much inconvenience during the spring term. Between water and falling plaster, and later of laborers restoring the damage done and the frescoers, there was ample occasion for exercising patience. Now that the improvements and restorations are accomplished, the Administration building is in better condition than ever before. The building has been entirely frescoed from top to ground floor.

The Board of Trustees of I. C. U. in their annual meeting had a harmonious and successful gathering. Rev. W. E. Snyder, of the Indiana Conference, was made President, and I. J. Good, Secretary. Professor J. A. Cummins was made Treasurer in place of Rev. J. A. Cummins, Sr., deceased.

The work of securing the one hundred thousand dollars was continued and other plans of the year ratified. The financial problems were fully and freely discussed, and the favorable reports of the canvassers much appreciated. "A long, hard pull and a pull altogether" was the command.

* * *

Many of the students of I. C. U. are finding profitable employment in Indianapolis both during term time and in vacation. The location of I. C. U. is such that any wide-awake young man with good habits of work can earn in the city enough, or a large part of the money necessary to put him through college.

Fred Dennis and Forest Bray, who have been preaching, are to re-enter the College this fall for more extended studies.

Mr. W. F. Pellett and Miss Winifred Morgan were married by Rev. J. E. Grimes on commencement evening. Mr. Merle Miller and Miss Ruth Noble were married at commencement time by the bride's father. These young people are I. C. U. trained, and it is safe to predict for them all the joys of long, useful and happy lives.

* * *

The members of the Faculty have been earnest in their efforts to bring the College to the knowledge of the people. President L. D. Bonebrake, Dr. J. A. Cummins, Prof. D. Robinson, Prof. I. J. Good, Mr. W. G. Bailey, Mr. W. F. Pellett and others have frequently spoken in the churches and in various gatherings during the school year.

The commencement of 1913 has come and gone and there lingers most pleasant memories of it. The open sessions of the literary societies, the recitals of Misses Cleaver and Gesaman, and the general recital on Saturday evening, June 14, of the School of Music were but a happy introduction of the services following. On Sunday, Rev. H. A. Thompson, D. D., Dayton, Ohio, was the speaker in the baccalaureate services. In the evening Rev. J. E. Grimes, superintendent of the St. Joseph Conference, gave the address to the Christian Associations. On Monday the Board of Trustees convened in annual session; in the afternoon there was the annual exhibit of the School of Art, and in the evening ex-Governor J. Frank Hanly made the address at the dedication of the new literary halls, and the evening closed with the society banquet. On Tuesday the field sports were in the afternoon, and in the evening the class entertainment. On Wednesday, the annual commencement exercises, held at 10:30, were followed by the annual college dinner at noon. Bishop T. C. Carter, D. D., of Chattanooga, Tennessee, was the orator of the day, and he spoke on "Man at His Best." Twelve persons received diplomas and certificates.

* * *

Professor C. F. Meyer who, three years ago, was the head of Ancient Languages, has been secured as a member of the Faculty, and he will enter upon his duties as Professor of Greek and Latin languages and their literature at the opening of the fall term. All who know Professor Meyer and are acquainted with his work as a teacher will be pleased to hear of his return to Indiana Central.

* * *

In order to provide for the increasing attendance which is promised for the coming year, the College authorities have leased the large twelve-room dwelling known as the Arford property. The property is now undergoing extensive repairs and will be ready for occupancy when school opens in September. The rooms will be fitted up for the use of young women. The building will be in charge of a competent matron, who will have the general oversight. Boarding will be furnished young women and young men at as low a price as is consistent with students' demands.
